SUBJECT:           2006-07 District Satisfaction Survey Results
ORIGINATOR:       T. Parker, Assistant Superintendent

STAFF:              Diane Brunton

INFORMATION

The district's annual satisfaction surveys, measuring the satisfaction levels of students, parents, and staff with critical areas of schooling, were first instituted in 1979, the first year of school-based budgeting. Since then, the survey results have been used by all schools and central decision units as one measure of accountability. The surveys serve as an annual measure of satisfaction within the district and measure positive and negative growth over time. They provide performance measures for the district's annual report to Alberta Education. The data provided by the surveys is used in conjunction with other information for budget planning, results review and the evaluation and modification of programs and initiatives.

The 2007 District Student-Parent-Staff Satisfaction Survey was administered in April. Respondent groups included a representative sample of students at each school, a sample of district parents and all district staff.

Students and staff completed their surveys throughout the period of April 23rd to May 04th. One hundred and fifteen schools were involved in the online survey project, while the remaining schools continued to use the traditional pen and paper method. Preliminary results were available to principals at the online schools on Dataview in late May. Complete results for all schools were accessible to principals on Dataview by the end of the school year. Hard copy survey results were delivered to principals at school start up in August.

As is done on alternate years, parents were surveyed at the district level rather than at the school level. Parent survey packages were mailed via Canada Post April 20th to a randomly selected sample of district parents. Parents were again given the option of returning the survey through the mail, or completing it online. Slightly over fourteen percent of the completed parent surveys were submitted over the Internet, a substantial increase over the six percent received last year by this method.

Student, parent, school staff and principal groups continue to express positive response to most survey items. Overall positive response remains constant for these groups with only minimal shifts in overall averages. Central staff continue to be the least positive group, and exhibit the greatest decrease in overall average.

SUMMARY OF SURVEY ANALYSIS

STUDENTS

1. Grades 2-6 Students

Elementary students express continued positive response to the majority of survey items with very little change when compared to the previous year. They are very positive in regards to knowing the school rules and that the teacher expects them to do their best. The area showing the least positive response concerns whether most students in the classroom follow the classroom rules.

2. Grades 7-9 Students

There are slight increases in positive response to many of the survey questions. Junior high students express a continuing strong belief that they are expected to do their best. They are least positive concerning whether other students follow the school rules for behaviour out of the classroom; however, this question also registers the greatest increase in positive response in comparison to last year.

3. Grades 10-12 Students

High school students convey little change in their opinions on most of the survey areas, with only slight increases and decreases being displayed. An upward trend is seen concerning students having confidence in their principal. Students are very positive in regards to knowing how they are expected to behave in school. This group is least positive about students following the school's rules for behaviour out of the classroom.

K-12 PARENTS

Parents continue to show high levels of satisfaction with their child's school and the education their child is receiving. There is limited change in positive response from last year with most increases and decreases falling within the +/-5 range. The greatest increase in positive response is in regards to the yellow bus service provided at their child's school, although this is tempered by the high no response rate (82%NR). Parents are very satisfied with the amount of information they receive on how their child is expected to behave. The area showing the lowest degree of positive response concerns the level of funding for public education although it has been maintained in comparison to last year.

STAFF

1. School Staff

School staff express increased satisfaction with their opportunities for professional development and with the use of money in the district. Their confidence in the board of trustees shows a decrease from the previous year. They feel very positive that their school is focused on student achievement. School staff are least positive about having opportunities for input into district level decisions which affect them and their job.

2. Principals

Principals remain the most positive of all the staff groups. Their responses show the most fluctuation when compared to last year. Substantial increases in positive response are seen regarding the use of money in the district and with the services provided by Student Achievement. Responses also reflect increased satisfaction with the services from International Programs and Facilities as well as with the financial information they receive. Positive response shows the greatest decreases in the areas regarding principals' confidence in the board of trustees and with the availability of appropriately qualified staff for special needs programs. A slight upward trend is seen concerning the extent to which data gathered from time spent in the classroom assists in making decisions regarding professional development activities.

3. Central Services

Central services staff are the least positive of all staff groups surveyed. Most survey items show a decline in positive response in comparison to last year. A notable decrease is seen regarding confidence in the board of trustees. Downward trends in satisfaction are seen in a number of areas including: the information shared about department happenings; the use of money in central services; the cleanliness of the building; the district's mission is communicated clearly; the district is a good place to work; confidence in the board of trustees. Staff do appear to be increasingly more satisfied with their opportunities for professional development. These trends are evidenced in the Central Services graphs in Appendix I.

Detailed multiyear survey results are provided in graph form in Appendix I.
